Invitation From the Chair

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of JADPRO and the Advanced Practitioner Society for Hematology and Oncology (APSHO), I'd like to invite you to join us for JADPRO Live 2024 in Grapevine, Texas.

As we continue to make extraordinary progress in cancer treatment, the call for education on how to elevate patient care becomes even more urgent. The offerings you'll find at JADPRO Live similarly continue to expand in order to provide advanced practitioners with practical information and real-world insights.

Attend presentations on the state of the science led by thought leaders within multiple disciplines of hematology and oncology. Harness the expertise of your peers during networking sessions and in the Exhibit Hall. Share data on pioneering projects in the Poster Hall.

All of these activities serve to empower advanced practitioners to provide excellent care. Excellence in our profession is defined by our commitment to provide safe and quality care of the highest caliber. It is not only an individual pursuit but also a collaborative goal, one that relies on evidence-based practice, close teamwork, and partnering with patients.

This year's conference theme is "Gateway to Excellence." It's our hope that attending JADPRO Live and witnessing the huge strides and vast potential of the advanced practitioner role will be a transformative experience. Join us to discover the ways to fulfill our mission in clinical practice, leadership, administration, research, and additional areas.

I look forward to meeting you in Grapevine, Texas.
